CHAPTER II
REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

This chapter is expected to give important background information for the discussion of related literature. The researcher is going to describe some theories. The discussion consists of: (1) Definition of writing (2) Kinds of Writing (3) Teaching writing (4) Factor influencing writing (5) Collaborative writing (6) Chain Story in teaching writing.

2.1 Definition of Writing

Writing is the way to communicate with another people by written words to express their ideas or some opinions. Brown (2001:335) said that writing should not be easy as the graphic presentation of spoken language. Then, writing also represents writers’ ideas into a good text because in writing the writer should make the reader more understand the information from the text and what the writer write. It means that writing is difficult way to share and argue something in our mind.

Writing is how the writers give information and message to make the readers understand what the writers opinions in that writing (Brown, 2001:46). Writing is the way to communicate between the writer and the reader in the text. The information or message can be codes, pictures words and also sentences. Writing is the way to communicate and give some informations to the reader without meeting the writer directly.

Meanwhile, according to Byrne (1988:1), “Writing is graphic symbols which have to be arranged to form words, and then words have to be arranged into sentences. Then the sentences are arranged until become a text.” It means the writer must consider the way of combining and arranging sentences. The sentence which is arranged must connect with other sentences so that formed a text coherently. Therefore, the written text still must be revised in order to become good writing. Based on Cortes (2011:1), “Writing is an act of self-expression.” However, as Gebhard (1996:221) states that writing focus on readers and purpose, as well as a process of creating and recreating writing until the writers discover it. From those definitions, the researcher concludes that writing is indirect communication which is removed ideas, feeling, and experience into written form.

2.1.1 The Process of Writing

Teachers have interaction with their students to make the students more enthusiasm in teaching learning process especially in teaching writing. Teachers also be a facilitator in improving and discovering students’ writing process not only in writing but also all of the subject. According to Graves in Johnson (2008:179) the process of writing has five elements:

a. Prewriting

Prewriting involves generating ideas, understanding the ideas of others and collecting information. As Gebhard (1996:227) states that prewriting is the ways to get started writing such as brainstorming, clustering, strategic questioning, sketching, free writing, exploring the sense, interviewing, and information gathering.

One popular ways is brainstorming. Here, the teacher or the students can decide the topic. Then, they can write the ideas. Similar to brainstorming is clustering or words mapping, in which the students use a key word on the paper or board. Then, they write other words that are related to main word. The third activity is strategic questioning in which the teacher gives question to guide his or her student’s writing. For example: “What do you want to write about?” From here, the students will consider the topic that they choose. It is different with sketching: this activity offers students to write a part of sketches that represent ideas. For example: the plot of a short story.
Next activity that can be used is free writing. It gives chance to the students to put ideas into writing. Then, they must write for 5 or 8 minutes. If the time is up, they must stop writing and read aloud their writing in front of the class. After that, they can continue their writing again.

Exploring the sense is unique activity because the teacher asks his or her student to daydreaming. It guides them to see, hear, smell, touch, and feel something that they dreams. Then, they will describe it into writing form. Another activity is interviewing. The students interview their friend on a certain topic and write down on the paper. The last is information gathering, it offers students to collect information about certain topic. Then, they can write it as essay.

b. Drafting

After the writers decide planning, they have to write their ideas into the draft. From the draft, the writer will be able to write systematically and coherently.

c. Revising

Revising is the change that is given by the writersto rewrite if there are some errors in their writing. This stage involves adding, rearranging, removing, and replacing. The writers must think twice or more in this stage because they mustsearch the appropriate information with the topic and the paragraph connect with the other paragraphs.

d. Editing

This stage is correcting if there are some errors in the grammar, spelling, and punctuation. It needs to be done after revising.

e. Publishing

The final step of the writing process is publishing. The writers can share their writing to the readers. It can be shared through magazine, newspaper, blogs, or read aloud in front of class. The positive feedback and motivation responses on the result of writing will encourage the writers to do the best.

2.1.2 Types of Writing

Before writing, the writers must decide what type of writing that they choose is. As Morin (2011:1) states that there are four types of writing:

1. Narrative

   Narrative is the type of writing that tells a story. It usually used for the young learner in learning writing. The story can be used fictional story such as short stories and novels.

2. Descriptive

   Description is used to describe picture of place, people, or event. It focuses on one subject and uses specific detail to describe. For example, if the writers want to write about their favorite place, they not only tell the name of the place, but also describe the condition in that place and their experience. This type reproduces smell, taste, feel, or sound and moods such as happiness, loneliness, or fear.

3. Expository

   Exposition is used for giving information, explanation, and interpreting meaning. The kind of information can be in formed of instruction and direction, making explanation can be in formed of definition and clarification. While, interpreting means it can be in formed of analysis and evaluation.

4. Persuasive
Persuasive is used for expressing opinion or ideas. It uses the theory or the fact that happens in certain place to support that opinion. It is quite difficult for young learners because they must influence the reader’s point of view.

2.1.3 Criteria of Good Writing

Oshima and Hogue (1991:18) state that a good writing has important elements. They are as follows:

1. Unity

   An important element of a good writing is unity. It discusses only one main idea in one paragraph. The position of main idea may be at beginning, in the middle or the end of the paragraph.

2. Coherence

   According to Oshima and Hogue (1991:18), another element of good writing is coherence. The Latin verb cohere means hold together. It means that the paragraph is easy to read and understand because supporting sentences are in some kind of logical order and ideas are connected by the use of appropriate transition signals.

2.2 Kinds of Writing

Writing has three kinds, they are writing sentences, writing a paragraph, and writing an essay:

1. Writing a Sentence

   As we know, a sentence can be called sentence if it has subject and verb and it also has a meaning. Sentence is generally defined as a group of words that begin with capital letter and end by full stop, exclamationary mark, understandable, have a meaning and real.

2. Writing a paragraph
Oshima and Hogue (2007:38) paragraph is a group of related statements that a writer develops about a subject. There are three parts of paragraph:

a. Topic Sentence

   Topic sentence states the main idea of the paragraph. It is not only the topic of the paragraph, but it also limits the topic to one or two areas that can be discussed completely in the space of a single paragraph.

b. Supporting sentences

   Supporting sentences develop the topic sentence. Explain the topic sentence by giving reasons, examples, facts, statistics, and quotations.

c. Concluding sentence

   Concluding sentence signals the end of the paragraph and leaves the reader with the important points to remember.

2.3 Teaching Writing

   English is an international language that is used by many people for communication. One of the communication forms is writing. So, writing is an important part of language teaching. Based on Harmer (1998:79) there are 4 reasons for teaching writing to students of English as a foreign language. First is reinforcement, it means that students often learn English through writing because it eases them to memorize new vocabulary after they studied it. Second is language development, it means that students can develop their language through written text. It also helps them to learn English continually till they have become accustomed to do it. Third is learning style, it means students can improve another skill even they feel difficult to write. The last is writing as skill, it means writing is a basic language skill. Student need to know how to write letter, advertisement, diary, invitation, and etc.
From the explanation about the importance of teaching writing above, English teacher should concern with the process of writing and approach in teaching writing. This approach focused on the final result, the coherent and the error-free text that is produced by the students. While, the activity of writing approaches are imitating, copying, and transforming models provided by the teachers or textbooks, (Nunan, 1999:272). In addition, based on Nunan (2005:92-94) the teacher also should know the principles of teaching writing as follow:

a. The teacher must understand the student’s desire. For example: the topic must be appropriated with background of the students.

b. The teacher must give many chances for the students to write.

c. The teacher must give feedback in correcting and revising in order that the student is more understanding in next writing.

d. The teacher must give explanation about the elements of writing in order that the students will be careful in writing.

2.4 The Importance of Writing

Writing skills can be better grade and great academic achievement. Hariston (1986) gives some reasons about writing that may be important:

1. Writing is a tool discovery.

2. Writing is generating news ideas.

3. Writing helps us to organize our ideas and clarify concept.

4. Writing helps us to absorb and process information.

5. Writing is enabling us to solve the problem.

6. Writing makes us active learners rather than passive receiver of information.
From the reason of writing above, the writer found out that writing is considered as one way to express ideas, feeling, information and hopes.

2.5 Factors Influencing Writing

According to Heaton (1988:135) writing skills are complex and sometimes difficult to teach. Besides, it requires mastery not only grammatical and rhetorical but also conceptual judgment. Here, there are 5 factors that influence writing skill. Those are:

a. Organization
   It is a factor to know the students writing ability in logics, well, fluency, and cohesive.

b. Content
   It is a factor to know the student’s writing ability that depends on whether the information is relevant with the topic or not, the text is understandable or not and the students can confirm their written through supporting details or not.

c. Vocabulary
   It is a factor to know the student’s writing ability in using the word form, diction, logic expression of ideas and the relationship between the words.

d. Language use
   It is a factor to know the student’s writing ability in using grammar and appropriate sentences.

e. Mechanics
   It is a factor to know the students writing ability using spelling, punctuation, capitalization, and paragraphing.
2.6 Collaborative Writing

According to Gough (2005:31) collaborative writing means there are two or more students can join to contribute their writing in the draft and completing information. While based on Spring (1997:1) “Collaborative writing is activity involved in the production of a document by more than one author, then pre-draft discussions and arguments as well as post-draft analyses and debates are collaborative components.” So, grouping is always conducted in collaborative writing.

Grouping in collaborative writing makes the students are motivated to be brave in participating through the discussion and give responds to the idea. Furthermore, collaborative writing has many advantageous. First, the students can work together to write information. Second, the process of sharing and discussing in group can develop. Third, it can build the self confidence of the students when they present their writing.

2.7 Chain Story in Teaching Writing

One of collaborative writing activity is Chain Story. As Boulingui and Lee (2010:2) said that Chain Story is a story written by many people and only the next person in the chain knows where the story will end. Based on Danny (2002:1), “Chain Story is an activity in which one person writes a word, sentence, paragraph or more in the style of a story and then passing the piece of paper onto the next person, who continues the story.”

Stolbova (2000:1) stated that Chain Story can be used for intermediate students in order to help them to link sentences in one text. Students can enjoy in making their writings so that they will be motivated and never feel bored. According to Shaw (2011:1), in the implementation of ChainStory, students use repetition of key vocabulary and grammar. So, it helps them to remember. This activity also can allow students to be creative and imaginative. That is why it is good to start using Chain Story in teaching English as soon as possible.

ChainStory is very motivating, challenging and great fun for students. While for the teachers, it can ease them to introduce or revise new vocabulary and grammar to the students. It is also memorable and familiar contexts which will enrich student's idea.

In this activity, students can work interactively because they work together in a group. Moreover, the students also can support to express themselves as individual. The greatest advantage of Chain Story is interesting. From this activity, we can know the student’s development in learning writing.

2.7.1 The Procedure of Teaching Writing Using Chain Story Method

There is procedure in implementation Chain Story. Based on Josephine (2008:1) there are procedures as follows:

1. Displaying the picture in front of the class.
2. The students are divided into some groups. Each group consists of 6-7 students.
3. The teacher asks the students some guided questions to build knowledge of the field.
4. Then, the teacher asks every student writes a sentence in English on the blackboard done by one.
5. The first student who has written a sentence must go back of the line; then, the other student or group members continue the sentence and soon until it becomes a story.
6. After finishing the exercise, the teacher asks each group to submit the paper.
7. Do the steps above for the next group.
8. The teacher offers the example, the students will analyze and the teacher did discussion and evaluation.

2.7.2 The Characteristics of Chain Story

For the characteristics of Chain Story, the researcher takes the point based on the definition of the experts because there is a limit specific data about the characteristic of Chain Story. Those are:

1. Chain story must be written by many people.
2. Only thenext person in the chain knows where the story will end.
3. Someone who has written a sentence must pass the paper onto the next person to continue the story.
4. Chain Story is usually formed of narrative.

2.7.3 The Advantages and disadvantages of Using Chain Story Method in Teaching Writing

Advantages:

According to Smelcer in Magee (1993:3) Chain Story has advantages and disadvantages.

1. Students feel comfortable and at ease with them in learning and writing.
2. Students can improve their knowledge, skills, attitude for learning.
3. ChainStory can review vocabulary and grammatical structure.
4. ChainStory helps students in correcting error

Disadvantages:

1. The teacher must spend much time to give explanation and instruction in applying ChainStory.
2. It is quite difficult to control the groups in a big class.
3. The slow students could be totally lost because every student only has a few minutes in writing a sentence.

2.8 Previous Study

Previous studies have been conducted by some researchers related to the use of Wholesome scattering game. The first previous study is by Putra A.P (2013) with the title “Using Chain Stories To Improve The Ability Of The Eight Grades Students Of MTs Dar-El Hikmah Pekanbaru in Writing Recount Text”. In his study, he used a classroom action research to solve the research problem. The finding of his research show that chain story can be significantly effective in teaching writing of MTs Dar-El Hikmah Pekanbaru.

The second previous study is by Magdalena (2013) with the title “The Effect of Using Chain Writing Technique toward Students’ Narrative Writing Ability of Eight Grade Students at SMP NEGERI 1 MUARA BUNGO”. She uses Chain Story as a teaching technique in teaching English writing. In her study, she used descriptive qualitative research. The finding of her research shows that there was a significant difference in narrative writing ability between the tenth grade students of SMP NEGERI 1 MUARA BUNGO who were taught with chain writing technique and those who were taught with free writing.
The third previous study is by Febrina (2013) with the title “The Effect Of Using Chain Stories Technique Toward Speaking Ability Of The Eight Grades Students At Islamic Senior High School Dar-el Hikmah Pekanbaru”. This study was conducted by using experimental design. The result of the data were analyzed by using independent t-test formula. In conclusion, it is acceptable that Chain story gave a significant effect on students’ speaking ability.

The last previous study is by Arga (2013) with the title “The Implementation Of Steps Chain As A Technique To Teach Speaking Procedure Text For Seventh Graders Of SMPN 1 SIDOARJO”. This study is design as a report in the form of descriptive qualitative without any statistical calculation. The population of the research is grade VII of SMPNegeri 1 SIDOARJO. The result of this study showed that steps Chain Story activity was successfully implement in class and it was very effective as a technique to help both teacher and students in teaching and learning process of speaking procedure text.

The similarities between those three previous studies is research on the success of Chain Story in teaching English at junior high school. Two previous studies used descriptive qualitative as a design. The purpose in those previous studies to improve student ability in English writing. Chain Story can make the students active in the classroom. The differences of this research with those previous studies and the researcher are on research design and subject of the study. One previous study uses CAR (Classroom Action Research) and one previous study uses experimental on the research. Design and the subject of the study is second grade students. The researcher uses descriptive qualitative design. The subjects are two English teachers and the seventh grade students at SMP Muhammadiyah 4 Gresik and SMP Islamic Qon.