

ABSTRACT

Fitriyah, Rohmatul. 2019. Social Learning and Emotional Learning In EFL classes at University of Muhammadiyah Gresik. Thesis. English Language Education Department, Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, University of Muhammadiyah Gresik. Advisors: (I) Dr. Khoirul Anwar, M.Pd, (II) Dr. Candra Hadi Asmara, M.Pd.

Keywords: Social Learning, Emotional Learning

Language is a tool that is very important in communications. Without the language we do not know what the people say and what the people mean. But language is used not only as a means of communication but also as a means to relate and build relationship with other people. The expansion of communication, information, and technologies leads the people to join the global era where there are many necessities of high qualifications and skills related to the ability in using some foreign languages. In Indonesia, English is a foreign language. Nowadays English is one of the international languages. English has an important role in this era starting from education aspect until politic. But many people and also student have a low ability to understand English and underestimate the English.

Based on the explanation related about the factor that influence in learning English above, the researcher try to make research in University of Muhammadiyah Gresik about the factor that influence in learning English. The researcher takes subject at University of Muhammadiyah Gresik in second semester because the researcher think they are just starting the world of education at universities either already working or not working, so that the researcher can see about their social and emotional learning specially in EFL classes. The factors to be observed and discussed is about social and emotional factors. In this reserach will be discuss how the student attitude and interactions during learning English with their friends, lectures and their environment at University of Muhammadiyah Gresik.